THE BANKS OF THE WABASH — Police and volunteers fight a losing battle with the Wabash River as flood waters swell into Peru, Ind. The crest of the river is the highest in 46 years.

Wabash River Dike Repaired

Huge Ice Jam, More
Rain Pose Threats

WEST TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — A temporary dike holding swirling Wabash River floodwaters from this western Indiana city broke early this morning, but sandbagging crews patched the break and kept most of the water from the city.

The dike was on Sugar Creek, a swollen tributary of the Wabash. Officials, at first thinking it was useless to try to patch the dike, released sandbagging crews to scan the area and see if all families had been evacuated.

The crews later were recalled, and the break was repaired in about 30 minutes.

Authorities still feared that the dike might give way today, as a huge upstream ice jam and predictions of more rain posed a double threat.

More than 1,500 families already have been chased from their homes along the Wabash, and President Eisenhower has declared 13 flood-stricken counties major disaster areas.

A permanent levee along Sugar Creek broke during the big floods last June and never was completely repaired. The temporary dike was thrown up.

Some 150 homes are in a 16-square block area near the break, but officials said they thought all families had left.

The river level reached 24.2 feet shortly before the break and still was rising. The weather bureau had predicted it would crest today at 24.2 or 24.3 feet. Flood stage is 14 feet.

More than 300 persons have been working night and day building the dike, about seven feet high. National guardsmen and local residents were joined by prisoners from the Indiana State Penal Farm.

Anxious residents upstream expected to learn today whether a mountainous ice jam between Logansport and Delphi would be dynamited to ease the ice and water slowly downstream.

Forecasts of one half inch to two inches of rain over the weekend heightened anxiety.

The huge ice jam, about eight miles long and with chunks as big as automobiles, caused the most anxiety. Officials feared it might wreck railroad and highway bridges if it suddenly broke loose.

Plans Progressing Steadily

No Distribution of Surplus Food Expected In County Before April

LISBON — Columbiana County is not expected to have its surplus foods distribution program in operation before April, according to Robert Bycroft, county welfare director who was placed in charge of the program by the County Commissioners.

An estimated 800 families will be eligible for surplus food. The amount for each family is set by Agency, and is based on the number in each family.

Warehouse In Columbiana
At present, a warehouse in Columbiana is being considered as a food storage site. Formerly the Columbiana Farm Bureau office, it is located on Railroad St.

The commissioners have no contract with the owner, but are expected to effect one. Afterward a state inspector will be sent to

Finances Held River-Lake Road Key Freeway Status Elicits Rumbles of Discontent

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The first rumbling of dissatisfaction with something done by the new administration has come from northeast Ohio. It doesn't appear to be very loud.

It apparently was prompted by events connected with a 90-mile stretch of road which doesn't even exist. The target, if it is any single individual, is Everett S. Preston, who stepped in just about a month ago as state highway director.

The project around which the whole thing revolves is the proposed $100-million-dollar Lake Erie to Ohio River freeway, from Ashtabula to East Liverpool, a distance of about 90 miles.

The outgoing highway director, Charles M. Noble, declared the route had been positively selected when he formally put it on the director's journal Jan. 5.

Four days later, Preston commented that he had no argument with the route of the proposed freeway, but added — apparently referring to the over-all highway construction program — that "we will be responsible for the department and we will have to re-analyze the situation."

That, coupled with a Highway Department Deputy's comment that completion of certain sections of the freeway would be a long way off, got a reaction in a hurry.

As State Rep. Howard A. Fortney (D-Ashtabula) later described the situation, some residents in the Ashtabula area "reached a very high pitch." A newspaper in the area labeled it "a backward step," and went on to say:

"It would be most unfortunate if the new State Highway administration cast aside all the work that has been done, just because the plans were made by a regime of another political party."

At East Liverpool, the Review said editorially that "It is only natural that the new State Highway officials should want to review all plans set up by the preceding administration," but added:

"It would be a great misfortune for eastern and southeastern Ohio if the (Lake to River) project would be too long delayed. . . ."

This reaction appeared to surprise, and certainly upset, Preston, who has since tried to emphasize at every opportunity that "we are not taking anything away from the people up there."

Two groups visited Preston's office recently to discuss the freeway. The first was the Lake Erie to Ohio River Highway Assn. which is chairman, attorney Francis H. Lang of East Liverpool, says represents about 30 auto clubs, chambers of commerce.

11 Killed, One Missing In Fire

Eight Injured In Ashland, Ky., Blaze

ASHLAND, Ky. (AP) — Fire cut through an old apartment building "like an acetylene torch" early today, leaving 11 dead and one missing. Eight other persons were injured.

Among the victims were six members of the same family, including an expectant mother. She jumped from a window of the second floor, then died after giving birth to a still-born son.

The fire, called the worst in Ashland's history, broke out at 1:01 a. m. and quickly cut off the only exit, a stairway at the front of the reconverted theater.

"Almost right away people began jumping out of the windows," said taxi driver Anthony Blackwell, who discovered the blaze.

Blackwell said he saw seven occupants standing at windows in the rear of the building on Green-up Ave. But "they disappeared when a section of the ceiling apparently fell."

"That fire cut just like an acetylene torch," he said.

Delmar Fannin, one of the 20 occupants of the stone-front structure, said he was awakened "when the fire flapped the rug at my door like wind."

Heard Women Scream
"I heard a woman scream but was unable to tell where it was coming from. Then I smelled smoke."

Fannin's wife and sister jumped to safety and he and a brother-in-law were brought out by firemen.

Coroner Russell Compton said the missing person was 14-year-old Jack Kirk, believed to have spent the night with his father.

2 Residences Here Damaged By Fires

Two Friday, the 13th, fires caused extensive damages to two residences in Salem.

Losses, estimated collectively at $17,000, were more than double the $8,110 city fire loss for last year.

Firemen were called to the residence of Harold Secrest, 517 W. Pershing St., at 6:34 p. m. Friday, when a fire of undetermined origin guttered the interior of the house.

Fire Chief Clarence Wright said the fire which started in a stairway and spread to the entire interior of the house did an estimated $7,000 damage to the contents of the dwelling and the house itself. The loss is covered by insurance.

The Secrest family was away at the time. Neighbors discovered the blaze and turned in the alarm.

Neighbors also summoned firemen to the residence of Odess Paparodis, 2007 Southeast Blvd., at 9:49 p. m. Friday.

Chief Wright said that the fire which did an estimated $10,000 damage to furniture, clothing and the home itself started in the davenport in the living room and spread to the kitchen area and laundry room in the basement.

He said there was also extensive smoke and heat damage to other rooms. The loss is covered by insurance.

No one was at home when the fire started.

Castro Vaults To Premiership

Serious Problems
Confront Leader

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro vaulted to Cuba's premiership today with wide powers to speed up the social revolution born of the rebels' victory in arms.

The 32-year-old military commander assumes the administration of a country still restless after two years of civil war and confronted with serious economic and diplomatic problems.

His first task is to curb threatening strikes—especially in the vital sugar industry—and find jobs for the half-million unemployed in a work force of 2,204,000.

Another issue facing Castro is the fate of Cubans who took asylum in various foreign embassies in Havana after dictator Fulgencio Batista fled in the dawn of New Year's Day.

Cuba's revolutionary regime has branded these Batista supporters as ordinary criminals. The refusal in approving safe-conduct passage for them out of the country has led to disputes with several Latin-American governments giving them refuge, including Argentina, Mexico and Chile.

Castro had the assurances of returning Premier Jose Miro Cardona, 56, that he would have "the opportunity to select his collaborators freely."

In moving up to the political front, Castro took a step that many felt was leading toward the presidency.

Pressure had been mounting for Castro to take over the provisional government when the surprise cabinet shakeup was announced Friday night.

The Havana newspaper Prensa Libre this week had urged the rebel military leader to assume the presidency—held by his hand-picked choice, Manuel Urrutia.

Cuba's provisional constitution was changed four days ago lowering the minimum age for presidents from 35 to 30, making Castro eligible for the job. But Castro said he wasn't sure he wanted to be president.

While Urrutia remains chief of state the power in the government now appeared resting largely in Castro's hands.

Mystery Man Under Probe

Investigators Hint
Of Big Revelations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate investigators are quietly loading up on information about a mysterious Ohioan named Phil Weiss.

They are asking whether he is the biggest labor racketeer of them all.

Counsel Robert F. Kennedy of the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee says he expects a sensation when he goes after Weiss later this year.

Weiss, a 59-year-old resident of Shaker Heights, a Cleveland suburb, was linked with the big time racketeering in labor-management at an open hearing before the committee last week.

This was one of Kennedy's questions to him:

"Isn't it correct, Mr. Weiss, that

Fremont Ice Jam Breaks Up, Moves On

FREMONT, Ohio (AP)—A huge ice jam which threatened this flood-buffed city for the last three weeks broke up Friday night and moved northward without causing damage.

The Sandusky river dropped 2.3 feet between 7 p. m. Friday and 7 a. m. Saturday when it was at 29 feet, more than three under flood stage.

The ice which had built up back of the Ballville dam, a mile and a half south, had been softened by the mild temperatures of the last few days. When it broke up and went over the dam, the pieces were so small they created no problem.

Before the broken ice reached another ice blockage 2½ miles north of the city, there was none left to add to that big jam.

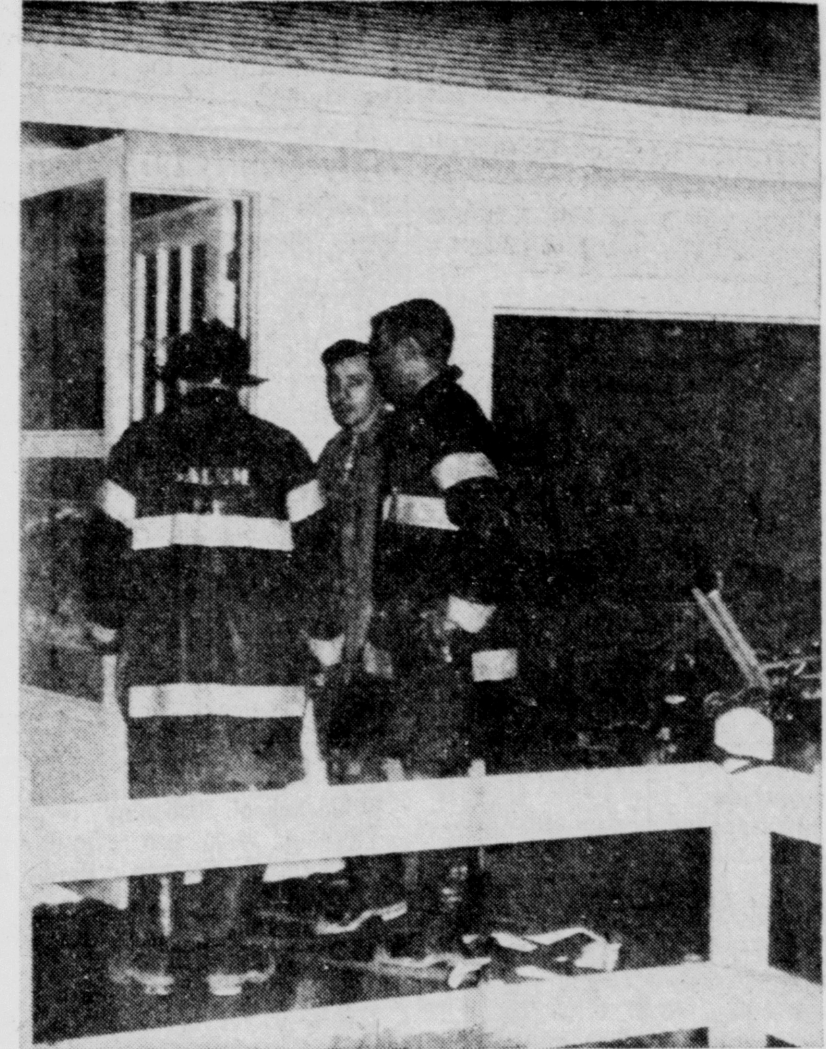

The national guard demolition team from Cleveland and Elyria has cut a 2,000 foot long channel through the mile-long gorge to the north. The men hope to blast the remainder of the way this weekend through ice which at places is four feet thick. They are working roped together—a precaution which paid off Friday when three broke through the ice and were hauled from the river.

Fog Shrouds District Roads

Sebring Youths Injured As Car Leaves Highway

Fog-shrouded highways in the Salem district Friday night and early this morning made motoring hazardous. Fortunately, only one traffic accident resulting in injuries was reported.

Five Sebring area youths were hurt after their automobile left the road on a curve of the Georgetown road, three and one-half miles southwest of Salem, this morning at 2:30.

State highway patrolmen said the car, driven by Michael Postey, 19, of 376 W. Pennsylvania Ave., Sebring, shot off the road on a curve and rolled over three or four times.

Postey and four passengers in the automobile were brought to the Central Clinic Hospital for treatment of injuries suffered. The driver who was cited for reckless driving received a sprained left ankle and lacerations and contusions of the forehead and right elbow. He was treated and released.

David Donaldson, 19, of Sebring, suffered abrasions of the right elbow upper left thigh, right shin, and right knee. He is reported to be in good condition.

James McDaniel, 18, of Sebring, sustained a back sprain, and abrasions of the right wrist and shin and is in good condition.

Richard Phillips, 19, of Beloit suffered a lacerated scalp and abrasions of the forehead and is reported in fairly good condition at the Clinic.

Also treated and released was Gene Koch, 19, of Sebring, who sustained abrasions of the right elbow and both knees.

Final Christmas Seal Report Shows $30,250

The Columbiana County Public Health League's 1959 Christmas Seal Sale now totals $30,250 or just five per cent less than the total of $32,484 raised in 1958.

Christmas Seal funds go toward the fight to control contagious tuberculosis.

Statehouse Topic of Conversation

DiSalle Exerting Real Leadership? GOP, Democrats Not In Accord

By DUANE E. CROFT
News Staff Correspondent
COLUMBUS, Ohio — Is Gov. Michael V. DiSalle exerting real leadership in presenting and promoting his program in the 103rd Ohio General Assembly?

That question — or one of several variations of it — is along the more common topics of conversation around the Statehouse these days.

It stems from the chief executive's practice of sending to the Legislature special messages on particular subjects without attaching specific bills to implement the recommendations he may include in them.

This can be interpreted either as leadership or lack of it, depending mostly upon which side of the aisle you view it from.

Generally the Republicans have criticized the governor's messages to date as so vague as to be of almost no value for legislative purposes.

Some of the GOP members tend to feel that by failing to offer drafts of bills, the governor wants to pass the buck of responsibility for legislation.

The Democrats, on the other hand, assert that DiSalle's messages leave little doubt as to where he stands or what he wants on a given subject.

They declare, moreover, that by leaving the drafting of legislation up to the members of the Assembly, he is merely respecting the constitutional separation of powers between the two branches of government.

Secretary's Leave From Post Continued

Medical Report Says
No Further Surgery
Is Contemplated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Dulles has cancer and will continue on leave from his post while undergoing radiation therapy.

President Eisenhower, after visiting Dulles at Walter Reed Hospital, said he had "expressed the thoughts and prayers of all of us that the results of his operation and the further course of treatment will be successful."

"In order to allow time for this purpose the secretary continues on leave of absence."

Visited By President
The announcement came shortly after Eisenhower had spent 37 minutes at Dulles' bedside.

A medical report issued afterward said that when Dulles was operated on for hernia Friday morning a small "nubular implant" was removed from the hernia sac and proved upon examination to be an "adenocarcinoma," a small cancer. The medical announcement also said that the fluid removed at the time the hernia sac was repaired was found under the microscope to contain "free cancer cells."

"No further surgery is contemplated," the announcement said. "In the immediate future radiation therapy will be used."

The cancer described as adenocarcinoma was the same kind of cancer Dulles was operated on for when a cancerous portion of his lower intestine was removed on Nov. 3, 1956.

Eisenhower's statement was issued by White House Press Assistant Anne Wheaton. State Department press officer Lincoln White gave out the medical report.

The President disclosed that during his visit he and Dulles had talked over the secretary's condition with the doctors.

"While I was with him his doctors discussed with us their findings of the existence of malignancy."

2 Boys Sentenced For Burglaries

EAST PALESTINE — Two youths were sentenced Friday by Juvenile Court Judge Louis Tobin after they confessed to a series of five burglaries here dating back to last August.

A 17-year old boy was sentenced to six months in the Columbiana County jail while his 13-year old accomplice was ordered sent to a foster home.

The older boy was apprehended in Portsmouth, Va., last weekend after having left home two weeks before that. He confessed to the burglaries and implicated the 13-year-old.

The boys were held in East Palestine until yesterday when they were taken to Lisbon for their hearing.

The Idea Is To Behave Like Adults

Whether Spondocrats were listening to the President of the United States or the new governor of New York last week, they got the same earful:

If you intend to keep spending, start taxing.

Never has there been a neater summary of what responsible public officials should be trying to do.

In Washington, President Eisenhower is trying to preserve what is left of the financial integrity that underwrites the value of the U.S. dollar and the credit of the U.S. government.

He is challenging the spenders in government to call a halt before they ruin the credit of the United States by spending more than they have the courage to collect in taxes.

He is putting the Spondocrats on the defensive for their happy credo of spending and electing, spending and electing ad infinitum. If they want to spend more, they should tax more — and only then will they put the popularity of spending to the test.

IN ALBANY, where Gov. Nelson Rockefeller is trying to put the wealthiest of the 48 states on its financial feet, Spondocrats have been given the same challenge.

New York's budget has been zoomed over two billion dollars. Revenue is a quarter of a billion dollars short of the spending total. Gov. Rockefeller has electrified New York Spondocrats by challenging them either to raise the taxes to cover the tab or to reduce the tab. He has outlined the kind of taxes that would be necessary.

Every tax-spender in the state shrinks from still further boosts in New York's income tax. The state's gasoline tax already has been boosted. It would have to raise its excise tax on cigarettes and its estate tax rate.

THIS IS unpleasant talk for Spondocrats.

They like to talk only about things they want to give the dear, dear voters for nothing — better houses, better roads, better everything. They never voluntarily talk about the fact they are giving away money they don't have the guts to collect.

When that is mentioned, they clear their throats and murmur, "Ah yes, deficit financing. Tsch, tsch. But the dear, dear people deserve the best. Economic budgeting, you know. Give the people what they need to make them happy and Heaven will provide. What is good for the people is good for the budget. Go away, boy, you are standing in my light."

It takes a lot of confidence to believe that a couple of men like Dwight Eisenhower and Nelson Rockefeller can pin the tail on the donkey and make it stick. But it's worth the effort.

The Democratic party and the Spondocrats are now one and the same thing. Irresponsible spending — outlay without the revenue to back it up — is so close to being the vote-getting formula of the Democrats in this country that only a hair-splitter can see the difference between a Spondocrat and a Democrat.

THE ISSUE is being laid out sharp and clear.

It is by no means certain the Republicans, who are currently in a dazed condition and none too sure which end is up, will know what to do about it.

But there are millions of U.S. citizens who think financial integrity is more important than political popularity.

They are looking for political leadership. Perhaps they are beginning to find it.

It is not spending they object to; it is cowardly, double-talking politicians who lack the courage to collect what they spend, because they know that would be the sudden death of the Spondocrat movement in politics.

Burgomeister In a Hurry

Though the arrival of Willy Brandt, the regierende burgermeister (governing mayor) of West Berlin will not spur Americans into the frenzy of guessing that kept the country buzzing while Anastas Mikoyan was here, the young German politician will not be neglected. In his way, he is just as important as the Soviet deputy premier who preceded him in the mid-century contest of diplomacy by press conference.

Brandt, too, is hoping to learn something of importance to the future. Like Mikoyan, he is in deep in politics. And like Mikoyan, he is involved in the Berlin crisis that has been shaping up since 1945 and this year has been accelerated by the Kremlin.

Brandt, it needs to be remembered, is the bitter political rival of Konrad Adenauer, Adenauer, chancellor of the German Federal Republic, is head of the Christian Democratic Union, largest German political party. Brandt is the rising young man in the Social Democratic party, which controls West Berlin and gives Chancellor Adenauer his potential opposition in the Federal Republic.

Adenauer has the ear and the confidence of State Secretary Dulles; they see eye to eye on the position that West Germany and East Germany can be reunited by free elections, which is to say in effect that they are not likely to be reunited in the foreseeable future. Brandt has arranged to be in this country while Dulles is in Europe. He does not think free elections are necessarily the first step to reunify Germany, which is to think in effect that at least one of the positions taken by the United States and his political rival is untenable and might be demolished with a little press conference diplomacy.

Everybody with an idea to sell must come to Washington sooner or later, and the burgomeister of Berlin obviously is full of ideas to sell. He won't be as sensational as Mikoyan, but he will be just as busy.

Donovan to Dulles to Destiny

The death of Gen. William J. Donovan, who directed the Office of Strategic Services in World War II, has occurred at an instant in history when his OSS techniques may spell the difference between peace and war.

These techniques, as practiced since World War II by Central Intelligence Agency under Allan W. Dulles, are the only means the United States has of learning the status of its security relative to the security of its potential antagonist, Russia.

If his country lacks reliable information about the strength of Russia's preparations, it has no choice but to prepare itself excessively, to be on the safe side. It can do only what it has been doing since the end of World War II, which is to have little or no confidence in itself while taking everything the Russians say at its face value, to be sure of having a margin of security.

Everything the United States does in an open book, despite the comic-opera antics of top-secret clowns in government who sit on all the wrong things while the things that should be kept secret are handed out to anyone who will ask for them. But nothing the Russians want covered up ever is exposed willingly. CIA has a hard job — harder than the job the OSS had under Gen. Donovan.

Once Over

New York special committee has ruled that in a society flooded with jackpots, sweepstake operations, football pools, bingo games, auto raffles and general gambling, it is hard to get alarmed over a man betting on a horse with same comfort he gets winning a year's supply of money through a quiz show, an Irish lottery or a chance to win a trip to Paris from a soap sponsor.

Mystery is how the committee managed to carry its report safely to City Hall through the terrific traffic jam of citizens in a frenzied rush to try their luck on one thing or another.

COMMITTEEMEN got badly shaken up when caught between a busload of promoters of "You Too Can Win $10,000" airwave shows and a trailer full of agents with new twists enabling folks to get rich by completing the sentence, "I like hominy grits because..." Committee decision is briefly:

1. A man should be allowed to make a bet on a horse without being a sneak, a law-breaker or a victim of tough transportation and fallen arches.
2. It's not a bad idea to let a horse help pull a city out of a deep hole.
3. A citizen who can take a day off and leave town should get no favoritism over one who wishes to do his wrong guessing without exotic scenery, Oriental architecture, wild bird life and artificial lakes.

4. If a man wants to squawk "The bum quit on me" during a brief interval in the country, he is entitled to the privilege.

The committee played "Budget Aid" across the board. Theory is that since it is all right to "see a man about a horse," it is even better to see horses about a man, when the man is named Father ("In-the-Red") Knickerbocker. Committee decision was 4-2 with one scratch.

For Spiritual Strength

The Lenten season which began this week with Ash Wednesday services in many of our churches will be climaxed, after days of sober thought and meditation, by the joyous celebration Easter Sunday of Christ's resurrection.

Self-denial is practiced by many Christians during the Lenten season to help draw them to a closer communion with the Savior, forgetting worldly cares as they think of the crucifixion.

How insignificant material things become when we contemplate the seriousness of life at this traditional religious period, knowing that heaven opens with hopes eternal to the souls that despair. You can find spiritual strength this Lenten season.

Living Dangerously

Worth Fighting For

By RALPH MCGILL

ATLANTA President Dwight Eisenhower pleaded no one with his civil rights legislative proposals save those who want to get something done.

The fact that before introducing the administration proposal he had twice conferred with the two Texans, who are the Charybdis and Scylla of the congressional waters, indicates he will make a real fight for the package bill.

The two Texas Democrats, not the Democrats, control the Congress. Had the President merely sent his legislative suggestions to the House and Senate without having steered a course between these two, he would have gone to bat with at least two strikes against him.

Instead, those who look on with evaluating eyes would hazard the guess that the presidential proposals must have had an affirmative nod from the Texans. Indeed, it might not be too far from the mark to suggest that the White House draft grew out of a compromise made at the two secret meetings.

Be that as it may, two deductions are immediately obvious. One is that the President acted with intelligence and skill in meeting with the congressional leaders. The second is that there is a very real chance of having some necessary civil rights legislation emerge from the deliberations and debates.

THERE IS NOTHING punitive in the proposals. They are something of an improvement on the Lyndon Johnson package of rights. They do no damage to anyone or any state. They offend no traditions, save that of denial of civil rights. They throw some protection around the ballot. They make it a matter of federal investigation to bomb a church or school.

And, finally, they strengthen the protection of federal law about a court's decree by making it a felony for anyone to interfere, with force or threats of force, against a court's decree.

We may as well face the fact there are in the Congress a few men, and they are just a few, who really do not believe in the right of even the qualified Negro to vote.

Nothing more shameful has developed in this country, pledged to representative government, than the refusal of Alabama authorities to register perhaps the most qualified Negroes in that state—those on the faculty of Tuskegee Institute.

There can be no defense of this action. The Alabama defiance demonstrated there are those who do not believe in general rights to vote for those qualified. The President called the bluff, and use of it, "the keystone of Democratic self government." It is. Who can honestly oppose it?

RECENT EVENTS, too, have revealed there are some Americans who are willing to defy, with force, a court's decree. That the government should seek to maintain the orderly processes of law certainly is neither "punishment" nor radicalism.

Additional investigative powers are proposed for the FBI in the bombing of churches and schools. It is hardly likely there will be anyone so distorted as to oppose this. Financial interests long ago secured the protection of federal investigation against forgery and stolen automobiles. It will require a lot of gall to deny equal regard for churches and educational buildings.

The President's bill is a moderate one. It will disappoint both those who want more and those who wish less. It is in the best tradition of honest compromise which permits progress and prevents deadlock.

None can say that these measures even so much as impinge upon a single state's or personal right. What they do is bolster the general rights of all of us. They plug the few leaks in the dike of the Bill of Rights, which was written when the Republic was young.

It is difficult to see how they can offend even the most sensitive, though to be sure there are those allergic to the poisons in this field of legislation.

This moderate, sensible proposal makes it appear that the Messrs. Eisenhower, Johnson and Rayburn were well met—even if in secret.

Earth Satellites

By PETER EDSON

They Are Fact; Goal Is to Refine Them

Practical uses for unmanned space vehicles are being given intense study by military research teams.

Long before man finds out how to accommodate himself to conditions beyond the earth's atmosphere, scientists believe that satellites can be put to useful work for earth-bound men.

The fields which now seem to offer most promise are military surveillance, communication, navigation, and weather observation and forecasting.

These things aren't going to be achieved in the next year or two—maybe not even in five or more.

This year's program for the Advanced Research Projects Agency in the Pentagon calls for the launching of 12 to 15 test satellites from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. They will have payloads of from 300 to 3,000 pounds. But Roy W. Johnson, head of ARPA, concedes there will be failures in some attempts.

TOP PRIORITY is now given to military reconnaissance satellites. The first of a series of six of these "seeing-eye" vehicles is tentatively scheduled for early 1960.

If an agreement could be worked out with Russia for the use of these satellites under President Eisenhower's "open sky" inspection proposals, they would be legitimized. Until such time they might constitute spying. So they are being developed in secrecy.

The major technical problem is to build accurate guidance and time scheduling into today's free-flight satellites. They must be made to go where man wants them to go when he wants them to go there, instead of just circling the earth at random altitudes.

Next to guidance, the problem is one of making sure that cameras and scanning antennae are always pointed at the earth. The satellites must be able to do what high-flying aircraft do now on photographic missions. The objective is to keep enemy ground military movements under surveillance.

THE LAUNCHING OF a multi-missile surprise attack against the United States would necessarily involve the moving of much equipment in many areas.

Any reconnaissance from satellites which would reveal such preparations would put U.S. defenses on an earlier alert for a retaliatory attack.

A second use of satellites—closely related to the first—is for weather observation. Since satellites can circle the earth every 100 minutes or so, they make possible fast reporting on worldwide weather conditions. This will provide more accurate data for weather prediction.

A more limited application from the military point of view is that guided satellites would make possible rapid determination of weather over any target area against which a strategic bombing attack might be launched. A heavy cloud cover would dictate selection of a more favorable target.

DEVELOPMENT OF communications between satellites and the earth goes hand in hand with development of the reconnaissance vehicles themselves. A first crude demonstration of this possibility was shown in the Atlas Discoverer.

Launched last December, it relayed President Eisenhower's peace broadcast message back to earth, though the reception at this end was never too good.

Another military use of satellites which offers great possibilities is the development of more accurate navigation.

In firing intercontinental missiles, it becomes necessary to know the exact position of the launching site and the target. This becomes increasingly important for missiles launched from aircraft, submarines and ships at sea.

Existing world maps aren't accurate enough for such calculations. One striking reason for this was demonstrated recently by study of the Vanguard I satellite orbit.

It revealed that the earth was slightly "pear-shaped" instead of being a sphere flattened at both poles. The difference in the earth's diameter at various points — 25 to 50 miles — can not be charted accurately by aid of satellite navigation.

'Chickens Come Home'

By RAYMOND MOLEY

Political Micawbers who buy votes by unscrupulous, irresponsible appeals to public hankering for something — for — nothing sometimes find that success is very costly.

The heads of some of the candidates who wallowed in publicity after their glorious victories in November now rumple the pillows in the governors' mansions in long sleepless nights. For unlike the happy senators and congressmen, whose equally unscrupulous promises can be redeemed by whirling printing presses, governors must measurably pay as they go.

THE AGONIES of three of these promising princes we are able to witness with a grim satisfaction, tempered only by the realization that our money, not theirs, is involved in the painful operations that lie ahead.

Nelson Rockefeller is finding that it is one thing to sponsor, with inherited tax-exempt money, the reports of the Rockefeller Brothers Fund envisioning a happy citizenry of moochers on government bounty and another matter entirely to face these people as lacerated taxpayers. I have in these chronicles as far ago as last autumn described some of his promises, including a pledge to our Puerto Rican brethren that they should have relief money without any resident requirement and live without honest toil in government housing.

One of his troubles is that he succeeded as governor an equally lavish exponent of the welfare state, Averell Harriman, who made merry with the nest eggs left by a more prudent Gov. Thomas E. Dewey.

It isn't a matter of party, because whenever a Connecticut resident meets a New Yorker these days he makes merry about his Gov. Ribicoff, a Democrat, who started his second term with a wholesale slaughter of bureaus and tax-eaters in the government.

IN MICHIGAN the inexorable, soulless balance sheet has finally got Mennen Williams in a corner where neither his personal charm nor Walter Reuther can help.

While Rockefeller needs 277 million dollars in new revenues, Williams needs 140 million. He says that the state's tax structure is "confused, complex, inadequate and inequitable." He has been governor quite a while and apparently failed to make the necessary reforms.

The real fact is that not only is the state's tax structure "confused, inadequate and inequitable," but so is the governor. He is not, however, "complex."

In California Gov. Edmund G. Brown is paddling among the same fiscal waves as Rockefeller and Williams. He has a hungry legislature on his hands, together with the stark cash-on-demand Democratic platform on which he ran staring him in the face.

That platform consisted of a most fantastic program for collectivization.

THE ONLY HOPE for California taxpayers is that Brown will be faithless enough to abandon it, now that he no longer needs it, and try to prevent a rush of business from the state. He says he needs almost as much as Rockefeller — 256 million dollars. Some of his Democratic colleagues in the legislature are considering a raid on certain state trust funds to ease the peril of higher taxes.

All these governors will probably be "favorite sons" in the 1960 conventions. They coldly calculate that by that time people will forget their tax hurts and be prey for more abundant promises.

It would seem to me that the Hon. Richard M. Nixon is too intelligent a politician as well as too honest a man to overlook this situation of his rivals in his researches as head of the President's committee on inflation. One of the reasons advanced for more inflationary spending by the federal government is that the states are unable financially to do things for themselves. The wanton promises and succeeding extravagant spending in the states is a major reason for the "need" for federal aid — if it be need. And so let there be light, not only on federal waste, but state and local waste as well.

procedure, despite the fact that the Democrats have the votes to push through anything he wants, is merely further proof that he does not want to usurp any of the prerogatives of the Legislature.

Wants Facts on Issues

Lantz referred to statements in his majority policy committee meeting the other day.

Citing the Democratic platform of 1958, he urged his top lieutenants to "start digging" for the facts on this session's major issue so they will be prepared to draft and handle the proper legislation when the time comes. This especially applies to taxation and finances, he said.

The governor, he added, would make specific recommendations to them in his budget message, due in a week or two. But he made it clear he thinks the responsibility for carrying the ball rests with the legislators themselves.

"We would be shirking our duty if we just sat back and waited for the governor's office to tell us exactly what moves to make," he said.

Lack of Liaison Claimed

The Republicans also feel there may be some lack of liaison between the governor and the majority leaders in the Senate and House. They say this may be a natural result of the Democrats' lack of experience as majority party in recent years.

But the Democrats, though willing to admit they are inexperienced, emphatically deny there is any dearth of contact with DiSalle.

"The liaison may not always be apparent, but it exists," is the way Lantz put it.

There is no doubt that in the last couple of weeks visits by the legislators to the governor's office and telephone calls between them have been more frequent.

And that indicates that both sides are gaining in experience, too.

In supporting his desire to abolish capital punishment, Gov. DiSalle confessed he had had a change of heart.

His message to the Legislature pointed out that in 1937, when he was a legislator, he introduced and succeeded in getting the Ohio "baby Lindbergh act" making kidnapping a capital offense.

The governor blamed his action on his being "emotionally aroused" over a prominent abduction case at the time.

The infant son of flying hero Charles A. Lindbergh was kidnapped and slain in 1932 in New Jersey. Bruno Richard Hauptmann was convicted and executed for the crime, which launched a wave of federal and state legislation making kidnapping for ransom punishable by death.

Sergeant-At-Arms

Senate Sergeant-at-Arms Thomas Burkett of Massillon is a man who takes his job seriously.

Even when an event like Wednesday's debate on the SUB bill packs the chamber's gallery with interested observers, Burkett sees that order is maintained and rules are obeyed.

Although he is provided with a desk at the main entrance to the floor, he is on his feet almost constantly while the chamber is in session lest he miss a chance to be of service.

'Gentlemen'?

It is traditional in the legislative bodies of this country to refer to senators as "gentlemen." The title, however, does not apply in the Ohio Assembly if the signs on a couple of doors in the Statehouse can be believed.

On the House side, the door is marked "Gentlemen." On the Senate side, it reads simply "men."

cy not fully determined as to extent but certain to require further treatment," Eisenhower said.

The President said he and Dulles "had a good talk and he is resting well."

"His immediate response to the hernia operation, as the doctors indicated to me, has been very satisfactory," Eisenhower said.

The medical report said Dulles had "spent a very comfortable night and is in good spirits." It added:

"His blood pressure is 125 over 70. His temperature has been normal since the operation, his pulse is 70."

Since Dulles was operated on in 1956 medical reports—some as recently as last November—had showed no recurrence of the disease.

There had been some concern expressed Friday that Dulles might have cancer when the full medical report on his condition was delayed for 24 hours.

There was no official explanation for the delay on the full medical report. Normally, at least a preliminary pathologist's report is made to the surgeons before an operation is completed.

The President's personal physician, Gen. Howard M. Snyder, witnessed the operation and later reported to the President. But the White House would not comment on the nature of the report.

Dulles became conscious about dusk Friday night. He was reported in good spirits and asked for a newspaper.

Dulles entered Walter Reed Hospital Tuesday after he returned from conferences with Allied leaders in London, Paris and Bonn. He was described as having suffered considerable pain during that trip.

Development of an inguinal (groin) hernia had been reported previously. When he came back from Europe, doctors advised him to have an immediate operation.

Couple Gets Less for Land Than State Offer

LISBON — A Common Pleas Court jury Friday afternoon granted a Lisbon area couple $82.50 less for a tract of land needed for road purposes than the State Highway Department had offered.

The jury awarded $1,414.50 to William and Agnes Peterson of Lisbon RD 1, for about an acre of land on Rt. 164, south. The state's offer was $1,497.

Judge Raymond S. Buzzard presided over the four-day trial which began Monday. Another contested land appropriation suit will begin Monday. Theodore R. and Mary R. Thirion and the Rock Camp Mining Co., both of Lisbon RD 1, turned down the state's offer of $1,508.50 for an acre and a half of land on Rt. 164, south, and asked that a jury establish a price.

Fairfield School Equipment Replaced

Emergency replacement of school equipment was discussed at the regular meeting of Fairfield-Waterford board of education meeting Thursday night at Fairfield School. All members were present. Mrs. Curney Converse presided.

Fairfield students had no school Wednesday because of a lack of water. The water pump, after 43 years of active service, was replaced at an estimated cost of $2,500.

The hot water tank at Waterford School also will have to be replaced at an estimated cost of $650. In addition, two ranges in Fairfield School cafeteria, which had been repaired many times, had to be replaced.

The board recommended that state Rep. Clarence Wetzel be asked to back bill 267, which is now before the legislative body. This bill proposes salary raises for teachers, increased funds for operating costs and other change.

Joe Driscoll reported that he purchased a four-door Chevrolet sedan for the use of the industrial arts class when he attended a meeting Jan. 20 in Columbus where school personnel could procure surplus government material.

Mr. Driscoll and James L. McBride left Friday for Atlantic City, where they will attend the National Superintendents meeting.

Probe

you are probably foremost in the country as far as selling your racket connections, not only with racket labor officials but with racketeers in the United States?"

At another point, Kennedy compared Weiss with the gangster, Johnny Dio. In this question, Kennedy said Dio may be big time in New York but Weiss may be a bigger labor racketeer nationally.

To all this, Weiss wasn't saying yes or no. Both he and his brother, Emanuel (Manny), also of Cleveland, just glared at Kennedy and repeatedly invoked the fifth amendment.

The explanation for this refusal to talk, according to their lawyer, is that both are under indictment on charges of stealing auto parts from the Willys-Overland Co. in Toledo.

As for what Kennedy claims to know about Weiss, he put it all into his questions in the hearing last week. Here are some of them:

Whether Weiss, in the early 1940s, went into the wrist watch business with Richard Frankenstein, then a high United Auto Workers official but now on the management side of the table in steel.

Whether Weiss and Frankenstein were in the steel black market after the war—buying from the Portsmouth Steel Co. and selling to the Steel Trading Co. of Detroit.

Whether Weiss has had financial dealings with various steel companies.

Whether Weiss has used the names of high United Steelworkers Union officials in dealing with these steel firms.

Whether Weiss is close to teamsters boss James Hoffa and has dealt with big trucking firms on the basis of that friendship.

Kennedy promises he will have some answers to the questions some time this year.

As Kennedy put it to Sen. John L. McClellan (D-Ark.), chairman of the committee:

"We have subpoenaed the telephone calls of Mr. Weiss to various places in the United States—and it establishes a pattern."

The father was among the victims.

Compton listed the other dead as: Jack McKenzie, 30; his wife Polly, 28; her still-born child; and their son, Jackie, 4; Dickie Joe, 2; Johnny William, 1; James Powell, about 22; Mrs. Grace Balton, 50; Frank Artist, about 50; and Clyde May, about 50.

Fire Chief Burris Hensley, a veteran of 46 years with the department, said, "I've never seen a blaze as destructive as this one."

Didn't Have Chance

He said one of the occupants apparently made an attempt to put out the fire with an extinguisher "but it was moving too quickly. Those people just didn't have a chance."

Most of the residents lived on the second floor of the building, the old Columbia Theater, built in 1891. It also housed a restaurant and a sign painting shop.

Hensley, unable to give a cause for the fire, said he found a fire escape assembled in the yard at the rear.

"It was to be installed next week."

Guarding Your Health

By Dr. EDWIN P. JORDAN

Osteoarthritis, Mild Disease of Joints

I recall making a serious mistake some years ago in trying to tell a patient what was the matter with her.

She had a small amount of stiffness in her shoulders. This was found to be what at that time was most commonly called osteoarthritis. I told her the name and added that it would never give her much trouble and that she could ignore it to a large extent.

She came back about two weeks later looking worn and tired. She told me she had not slept a wink and that I should be hanged for telling her she had arthritis.

APPARENTLY everything I had said, except the word "arthritis," had gone in one ear and out the other. Personally, I think hanging was rather too radical a punishment, but there is no doubt that I had made an error.

At any rate, today this ailment is better known as degenerative joint disease. It is not an inflammatory disease of the joints. Its course is generally mild, it causes little or no serious disability and requires little treatment as a rule.

What happens is that there is a slow degeneration of the cartilage of some of the joints, leading to an overgrowth of the bony tissue around them. These changes may appear in any one of several different locations. They are particularly common in the end joints of the fingers (where they are called Heberden's nodes) and the weight-bearing joints, particularly the knees.

THE EXACT CAUSE or causes of degenerative joint disease are still poorly understood. There probably is a hereditary factor, however, since it appears that these changes are much more common in the members of some families than in others. It is also true that repeated injury to a joint favors the development of these changes.

Poor posture, obesity and disturbances of blood circulation are other conditions which contribute to the development of joint degeneration.

Because so many people with such joint changes are overweight, reducing is often advisable. This is especially important if the knees are involved.

People with this form of joint trouble are rarely incapacitated and can usually move around, though often with some discomfort. Frequently rest appears to relieve some of the stiffness. The use of heat, massage or special supports (depending on what joints are involved) are often helpful.

THE TREATMENT of degenerative changes in the joints includes general measures aimed at relieving the discomfort and improving the overall physical condition. Occupational strains should be eliminated whenever possible and bad posture should be corrected.

BAROMETER OF LIFE

Would it really help to have an instrument to predict the storms of life?

When the barometer falls it's too late to build a sea wall or to dig a cyclone cellar. Wise men prepare when the wind is calm. A leaking roof must be mended while the sun shines.

The Church does not claim to provide a barometer of life. But it preaches every Sunday the spiritual readiness which climaxed Christ's Sermon on the Mount:

"Whosoever heareth these sayings of mine, and doeth them, I will liken him unto a wise man which built his house upon a rock:

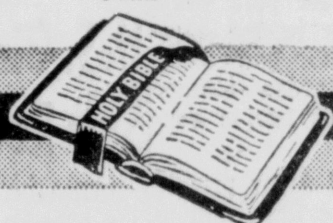

"And the rain descended, and the floods came, and the winds blew and beat upon that house. . . .

"And it fell not: for it was founded upon a rock."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

California Defeats Oregon 83-55 To Lead Conference

Southern Cal Drops Idaho

Stanford Wins 8th Home Game In Row

By The Associated Press
Pete Newell's California Bears were all but counted out of the Pacific Coast Conference basketball race before the season began. The Bears had lost their two best players through graduation and the Washington Huskies were put in the favorites' role.

But today California is streaking toward its third straight league title. And last year's stars, Don McIntosh and Earl Robinson, apparently are not being missed. Friday night, the Bears trampled Oregon 83-55 to take a one-game lead over idle Washington. California parlayed a stout defense and fine shooting by Darrell Imhoff to lift its league record to 7-2 and its season's mark to 14-4.

In other PCC action, Southern California defeated Idaho 69-65 and Stanford won its eighth straight home game, 69-61 over UCLA.

In the Skyline Conference, victories by Utah and Denver set up a showdown battle between the two top clubs next Thursday night in Denver.

Utah, 8-0 in the league, rode over Montana 83-71 with Gary Chestang hitting for 17 points. Denver, a game behind the Utes, clobbered Wyoming 74-39. In another Skyline tilt, Colorado State University moved to a 13-point lead midway in the first half and whipped New Mexico 74-55.

Princeton's 10th triumph was another feature of the night's relatively light program. The Tigers deadlocked idle Dartmouth for the Ivy League lead by turning back Columbia 36-27. It was Princeton's eighth loop victory against no defeats. Columbia's mark is just the reverse, 8-0.

Cornell held off a second half rally to nip Penn 63-58 in another Ivy game. Cornell meets Princeton in a nationally televised game, NBC, this afternoon.

In other league action, The Citadel finished strong to tumble George Washington 64-44 in the Southern Conference. The Bulldogs thus won their 12th against only three losses.

In the Rocky Mountain Conference, Colorado State College beat Idaho State 84-81 in overtime. Adams State defeated Colorado Mines 89-77 and Western, Colo., walloped Colorado College 80-52.

Don Bragg Seeks To Become First To Vault 16 Feet

NEW YORK (AP)—Don Bragg, the new world indoor pole vault record holder, goes in the New York Athletic Club games in Madison Square Garden tonight with only one world left to conquer.

The 6-3, 197-pound Army private wants to become the first man in history to pole vault 16 feet, one of the last of the "impossibilities" of the last decade.

They've run the four-minute mile, jumped seven feet and surpassed just about all the other standards that 10 years ago were regarded as almost beyond human effort.

Whether he'll do it at the New York AC meet remains to be seen. The chances are he won't. He isn't quite ready. But anyone foolish enough to say he never will vault 16 feet will be climbing out on a long, thin limb.

Bragg went up 15-9 1/2 in the Philadelphia Inquirer Games Friday night breaking Cornelius Warmerdam's world indoor record of 15-8 1/2.

Actually, it was the second highest vault of all time. Bob Gutowski, the Olympic champion, cleared 15-9 1/2 in 1957, but it was not recognized by the International Amateur Athletic Federation because his pole fell under the bar. However, it was recognized by the American AAU and hence stands as an all-time American record. Gutowski also holds the world outdoor mark (IAAF version) of 15-8 1/2.

In Fresno, Calif., Warmerdam called it "a wonderful achievement."

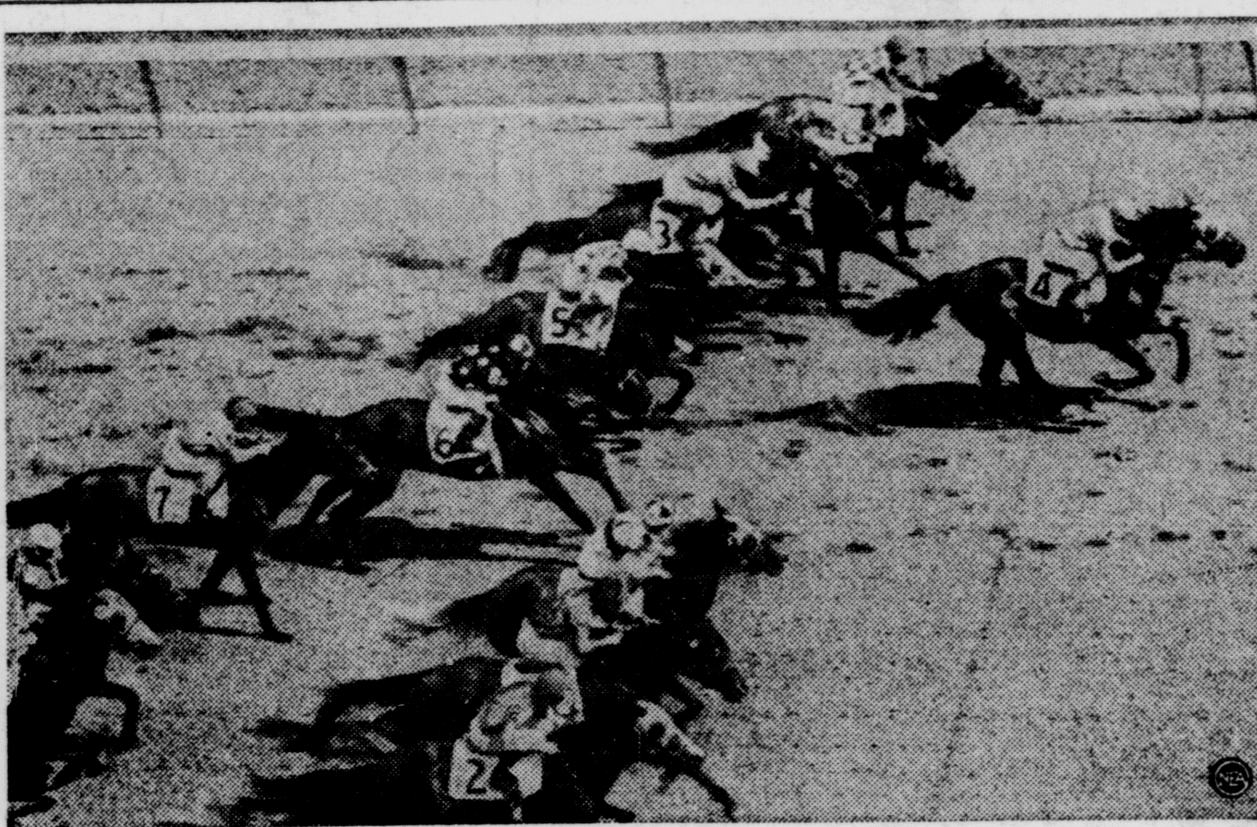

Ron Delany, who won his 28th straight mile in 4:05.8 by grinding down Lazio Tabori of Hungary in the final lap, goes in the half mile in the New York A.C. meet.

New York May Get Championship Fight

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Promoter Bill Rosenzohn predicts New York will get the Floyd Patterson-Ingemar Johansson heavyweight championship fight and that it will gross more than $750,000 at the gate.

But he's going to look into a Minneapolis $500,000 guarantee and there's an outside chance of staging the June show in Los Angeles.

Rosenzohn gave 6,000-seat Kezar Stadium and some other San Francisco arenas an unenthusiastic look Friday, then chatted with sports reporters.

CAVALRY FORMATION — Steve Brooks got Adornidera, 4, out of the gate first at Hialeah Park, kept his mount on top of a big field until the stretch, where he was overtaken by Gay Diction, Billy Cook up, on the rail here. Way Lady, 5, George Gibb in the irons, showed.

Junior High Cage Tourney Set Here For Feb. 17-20th

Nine different teams will be represented in the sixth annual junior high basketball tournament to be held here Feb. 17-18-19-20. The tourney will involve both seventh and eighth grade teams. The first game is set for Tuesday at 4 p.m. with New Waterford A. meeting East Palestine B. "A" teams are eighth grade and "B" are seventh graders.

At 5 p.m. Tuesday, Salem B. will play East Palestine A. On Wednesday at 3:45, New Waterford B takes on Columbiana while at 4:45, Alliance State St. meets Leetonia. In the third Wednesday game, Salem A. will meet the winner of New Waterford A. and East Palestine B. game.

The semi-finals will be held Thursday and the consolation and championship contests next Friday.

All games will be played in the junior high floor at 230 N. Lincoln Ave.

The meet was originally scheduled at Columbiana but was switched to Salem a last minute.

At the three-quarter mark the Beavers held a two point bulge 39-37, but the eventual losers came back to knot the count 47-47 at the fourth stanza.

Larry Less Kessler was high for the Salineville with 18 points. Six players scored on each team. The contest was Beaver Local's last of the season. A game scheduled for next Friday with Dennison St. Mary's was postponed because of tournament action.

The Beaver Local Jayvees lost 53-43. Kessler 7, 4, 18; Gearin 5, 3, 13; Kerr 2, 6, 10; Malone 0, 3, 3; Giamone 1, 0, 2; Dunlap 0, 1, 1. Beaver Local — 52. U.S. Girl Swimmer Sets Record In 220

HOBART, Tasmania (AP)—Sylvia Ruuska, one of America's answers to Australian domination of swimming, today turned in the fastest time ever registered in the 220-yard individual medley.

One of two teen-age U.S. girls invited to compete in the Australian national championships, the 16-year-old Miss Ruuska from Berkeley, Calif., churned the distance in 2:40.3. Miss Ruuska beat one of Australia's magnificent youngsters, Dawn Fraser, on the way to her record clocking.

America's other entry, Chris Von Salza, a junior at Los Gatos High School in Saratoga, Calif., pushed Australia's Ilsa Konrads to near-record time in the 440-yard freestyle.

Miss Von Salza finished 12 yards behind the Aussie star as Miss Konrads swam the distance in 4:50.2. The world record is 4:48.6. The blonde 15-year-old U.S. competitor was timed in 4:58.8. Ilsa's older brother, 16-year-old John, won the 220-yard freestyle in 2:03.3. His time was 1.1 second over the world standard he set last Saturday.

Lowellville Chief Wants Job Back

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Police Chief Thomas Augustine of nearby Lowellville, who resigned, effective Feb. 16, after he pistol whipped Mayor Alfred Mellillo in the Village Hall, says he has changed his mind and will return to the job Monday when his vacation ends.

Mellillo, whose head wounds required 20 stitches to close, agreed to drop criminal assault charges against the 49-year-old chief when he agreed to resign on Jan. 19, four days after the attack.

The chief Friday announced his decision to return to the job. However, village solicitor Ralph Delfraino said Augustine's resignation was accepted by the mayor and is final.

The attack on the mayor followed an argument over holding special classes for patrolmen.

Clippers Beat Leopards for Eighth Win

Ray Baltz and Don Davidson were the whole show for the Columbiana Clippers last night at Louisville as they tallied 57 points between them to pace Rich Berryman's club to an 80-61 win over Louisville. The winners evened their seasonal mark a 8-8 while winning their seventh game in 12 Tri-County League starts. Louisville is now 5-7 in league play and 6-9 on the season.

Baltz tossed in 12 goals and five fouls for 29 points while Davidson canned 10 goals and eight fouls for 28 tallies.

Darryl Wartluft paced the losing Leopards with 22 points. Columbiana took the lead at the outset and held quarter leads of 21-12, 45-31 and 60-40.

The winners hit a hot 55 percent making 30 of 54 shots while the losers hit on 26 of 74 tries for 37 percent. Columbiana made 20 of 31 fouls and the Leopards 9 of 17.

Louisville's reserves won 45-31. The Clippers will play Sebring at home Tuesday while Louisville will play Minerva at home the same day in the clubs next games.

Four Big Ten Tilts Scheduled Tonight

Northwestern and Purdue, a pair of early favorites, will battle for survival in the Big Ten basketball race today in a regionally televised game at Evanston.

Both teams are in fourth place with 4-4 records and the loser will have to forsake title hopes which were high before the rugged campaign began.

Three other games are slated for tonight with Michigan (4-3) at Michigan State (6-2); Indiana (5-3) at Minnesota (4-4) and Iowa (4-4) at Wisconsin (1-6).

Michigan State could stretch its lead to two full games by beating Michigan and having Minnesota dump Indiana.

However, should Michigan upset MSU, the title race would run into another scramble.

Michigan State is a strong favorite to beat Michigan and Minnesota is a slight favorite to defeat Indiana. Iowa is favored over Wisconsin and Northwestern is favored over Purdue.

Four more conference games are scheduled Monday with Wisconsin at Illinois, Indiana at Purdue, Iowa at Michigan and Michigan State at Northwestern.

SPECTATOR STRIKES PLAYER

WAVERLY, Ohio (AP)—A basketball game between Waverly and Beaver high schools was called off Friday night with three minutes left to play when a spectator jumped onto the court and walloped Beaver player Ronnie Bordon. The youth will undergo X-rays today to determine if his nose is broken. Beaver was declared the winner, 51-40, on its home court. The spectator, from Waverly, was not arrested when the incident occurred.

Frankie Ryff Scores Win Over Andrade

NEW YORK (AP)—Frankie Ryff has a new lease on life after his impressive victory over Cisco Andrade.

This is the second chance for the 26-year-old lightweight boxer from the Bronx. He is determined to make the most of it.

Discouraged by his tendency to cut around the eyes and upset by managerial troubles, he quit the ring to drive a cab last summer. Steered into a connection with Barney Ross, the former light and welter champion, Ryff has found new hope.

"Barney taught me to throw my left hook with more power," said Ryff Friday night in his dressing room at Madison Square Garden. His room was crowded with handshakers and well wishers after his clear cut unanimous decision over Andrade, the 7-5 favorite.

Judge Artie Adala saw it a lopsided 8-2. Referee Ruby Goldstein scored it 6-4 and Judge Bill Forst 5-4-1. All votes for Ryff. So did The Associated Press 7-3.

WELLSVILLE — The first entries are being received for the first annual senior basketball tournament of the Wellsville Junior Chamber of Commerce planned March 23 through March 28—excluding Good Friday—at Beacon Memorial Gymnasium in Wellsville.

A total of 54 trophies will be awarded to outstanding teams, players and others for sportsmanship, foul shooting and other feats.

The entry fee is $10 a team. Its Wellsville's fifth cage tournament known in other years as the Omni-Club Tournament.

NEW YORK (Madison Square Garden) — Frankie Ryff, 137½, New York, outpointed Cisco Andrade, 135, Compton, Calif., 10.

Sports Sketches

By GORDON ARNDT

Second half play in the city basketball league has the potential of developing into a myriad of play-offs.

Fireside Inn is tied with Herron Transfer for first place in the Monday Division, each with a 5-1 record.

In the Wednesday Division, Bennetts Greenhouse leads with a 6-0 mark while Burton Ford and Farmers Bank are tied for second at 5-1.

Bennetts play Farmers next Wednesday. Should Bennetts win they'll sew it up. However, if Farmers win and Burtons top winless Schaffer Ford, a three-way deadlock will result.

Ties in each division will necessitate playoffs to determine second half winners. These second half champs in each division will then play the first half winner in the same league to what two clubs battle for the city title.

Marks Landing won the first half on Monday while Farmers Bank took the first half on Wednesday.

Marks will meet Fireside Inn or Herrons for the Monday Division title and Farmers Bank will play Bennetts or Burtons for the Wednesday Division title. However, if Farmers win out over both Burtons and Bennetts in the second half on Wednesday they'll automatically go against the Monday title holder because they (Farmers) took both halves in their own league.

THE FIRST annual Royal Castle Independent Basketball Tourney will be held in Ravenna on March 20 through 27th.

Teams should contact Charles E. Knight, 246 Grant St., Ravenna. The deadline is Feb. 28.

A limit of 32 teams will be signed for the Salem Little City Tourney which begins March 23 at the junior high school.

Four team trophies will be given plus individual trophies to the championship team, all - tourney club, most valuable player and the high scorer.

The Salem Quakers will be the guests of the Boosters Club, Hoopes Tire Service and Lloyd Loop Sunday in Akron. The two local Good-year representatives and the Boosters will sponsor the team's trip to Akron to watch a National Industrial League game between Akron Goodyear and the Wichita, Kan. Vickers.

Akron Boy, 14, Held In Slaying of Father

AKRON Ohio (AP)—Jesse J. Lester, 48, was slain Friday night when shot five times with a revolver by his 14-year-old son, sheriff's deputies reported.

The son, Jesse Jr., told the officers he had just come into the house when his father ordered him to sit down and eat. He said he told his father he was going to the bathroom, but that when he got upstairs he went into a bedroom and got his father's revolver.

Deputies said the boy told them he shot his father after the father said he would "cut me up beyond recognition and put me six feet below."

LOVE'S PATH IS ROUGH

CINCINNATI (AP)—A Cincinnati businessman who wanted to tell his wife he loves her by radio will have to figure out some other way to get his Valentine to her. Radio station WKRC cancelled the sale of one minute of time to the man Friday after consulting its lawyers, who figured the broadcast might violate rules against point-to-point communication.

FLOOD DANGER ABATES

CINCINNATI (AP)—The U. S. Weather Bureau says the Ohio River won't reach flood stage again—if it doesn't rain too hard in the next few days. The bureau here said the river is at 34.8 feet and will probably crest Sunday night at 43 feet. But a spokesman said a general rain of one and a half inches in the upper Ohio River valley would send the river over the 52 foot flood sage.

INJUNCTION IS DENIED

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Common Pleas Judge W. S. Slocum Friday denied a motion for a temporary injunction to enjoin the Mentor Township Zoning Commission from holding a public hearing Monday night on the proposed rezoning of six acres of land on U. S. 20 across from Mentor High School.

Attorney Henry A. Herbruck, who sought the injunction, argued that the commission did not have authority to rezone the land because of present deed restrictions. The owners want the property rezoned from residential to commercial use so a shopping center can be built on it.
